Mr. Football

SAMUEL ADRIAN BAUGH has been called "Slingin' Sam," "The Arm," and "Mr. Redskin." He is more than any of these names imply; he is Mr. Football.

This is Sam Baugh's 15th season in the National Football League. Only one other player survived that many seasons—Halfback John Blood of Milwaukee, Green Bay and Pittsburgh (1925-1939). Baugh has spent his entire professional career with the Redskins.

In all, counting his high school and collegiate years, Baugh has been performing on the gridiron for 23 consecutive years . . . longer than many NFL players have lived.

Every time he throws a football, completes a pass, gains a yard, scores a touchdown, Baugh sets a world record. His records are listed on this page and the next.

The Band That Can't Be Beaten

SOMETIMES, the Redskins football team doesn't win . . . but, after all these years and against all sorts of competition, the Redskins Marching Band remains undefeated!

It all started, you might say, as an ad lib. Just before the second game of the 1937 season—first year of the Redskins' existence, a milk company employees' band asked permission to parade and play at home games. Permission was granted . . . and, for the rest of the season, these musical milkmen played to their hearts' content and to the fans' delight.

On Aug. 9, 1938, these same musicians met with others and the Redskins Marching Band was officially organized. Less than two weeks later, the now familiar marching song, "Hail to the Redskins!", with lyrics by Screen Star Corinne Griffith, was introduced over coast-to-coast radio . . . and the band played on.

It has been playing ever since. Twice, it has played and drawn plaudits alongside Fred Waring, Paul Whiteman, and the Philharmonic in the Philadelphia Inquirer's Music Festival. It has represented Washington in the big annual Lions' Club parade in New York. It has marched up Broadway at the head of 15,000 fans. And it has entertained at games in Cleveland, Philadelphia, Boston, New York, Baltimore, Norfolk and Pittsburgh.

It marches at the start and finish of each game, but no longer is it just a marching band. It now is an integral part of the halftime shows—those smartly-paced presentations that have featured some of the biggest names in show business.

The band is composed of volunteers of all sizes and ages—printers, plumbers, sheet metal workers; mechanics, painters, electrical engineers; law and medical students, salesmen, bookbinders; and, oh yes, of course, even musicians.

The organization is military-like. At the head is Band Director Richard H. Viancour, former Navy bandleader. Each marching line is a unit under direct command of a Chief, who is responsible for his unit's musical and marching ability, and discipline. The band's own arranger carefully times his scores to 90 seconds for time-outs. The band's own librarian has on file some 200 arrangements.

Wardrobe men, who care for the $25,000 worth of costumes, know their business so well that the bandsmen can file through one end of a box car in street clothes and out the other end in Indian get-up—all within 25 minutes!

The band's drum majors have diagrams of scores of maneuvers, man-by-man, and step-by-step, and, in one rehearsal, can whip the band into any design from a shamrock to a Christmas tree.

Head Coach—Herman Ball

HERMAN BALL is head coach of the Redskins by popular demand. Redskins fans—league leaders year after year in loyalty—refused to blame Ball for the Club's poor 1950 record. They rightly analyzed the cause to be an evil combination of injuries, ill-luck and inexperienced personnel.

Herman Ball

Time, they felt, would take care of the inexperience; the law of averages would take care of the injuries and ill-luck; and Ball, they hope, will take care of the rest.

There is no doubt that teams coached by the personable, 41-year-old West Virginian play interesting and all-out football. On the few occasions that the team was at full strength last season, its attack was as diversified and as devastating as any in the league.

Even when both Sam Baugh and Harry Gilmer were hobbled with injuries at the same time, the two top teams in the American Conference—the Browns and the Giants—barely eked out three victories in the final minutes by a combined total of 13 scant points—just about four points per game!

Ball was appointed head coach in mid-season of 1949. He is one of the oldest (in point of service) T-formation coaches. He has been pouring the T for more than a decade—longer than Greasy Neale, Frank Leahy, and other big-name coaches.

Ironically, Ball saw the light on that dark day when the Redskins were thumped 73-0 by the Bears in the 1940 World Championship Game. Ball, then coaching at Allegany High in Cumberland, Md., viewed that memorable massacre from an end-zone seat.

The next day he threw away his double-wing system, wiped the blackboards clean and hid himself to Clark Shaughnessy's clinic at Spirit Lake, Ia. His Allegany High team, using the T-formation, roared through two undefeated seasons.

Ball then moved to University of Maryland in 1943 as assistant to Dr. Clarence W. Spears. At Maryland, he survived three coaching upheavals, serving as assistant during three administrations—Spears ('43-44), Paul Bryant ('45) and Shaughnessy ('46). Ball first became associated with the Redskins as a scout in 1944 and 1945 while still at Maryland. In 1946, the Redskins hired him as a full-time assistant coach and chief scout.

After the second league game of 1949, Ball was promoted to line coach. After the seventh game, he was named head coach, succeeding Vice Admiral John E. Wheelchel, USN (Ret.)

Ball was born in Elkins, W. Va., where his 77-year-old mother and his four brothers and sister still live. He attended Davis-Elkins College, where he was running guard on the team that led the nation in scoring in 1933.

Ball is married to the former Edna Staniforth of Cumberland, daughter of a Methodist minister. Ball has a son serving in the Air Force.

The Balls live in Hyattsville, Md., a Washington suburb.

Backfield Coach—Dick Todd

Dick Todd, all-time great halfback, returns to the scenes of his most brilliant achievements after two years of coaching the backfield at his Alma Mater, Texas A. & M.

Proof that Todd already is establishing himself high in the coaching profession is the fact that two head coaching positions were offered to him during the Spring—Texas A. & M. and Texas Tech.

Todd, who celebrates his 37th birthday this season, set national scoring records at Crowell, Tex., High with 318 points in one season and 664 in four years. At Texas A. and M., with weak teams, he tallied 116 points. He joined the Redskins in 1939 and played through 1948—with two years out for Navy duty. He was chosen as the nation's outstanding service player in 1944.

Equally great on offense and defense, Todd is second among all-time Redskins ground-gainers with 1,573 yards in 368 tries; second among pass receivers with 119 caught for 1,826 yards; and third among scorers with 214 points. In his final season ('48), he led the team in pass receiving and in scoring.

As a player, Todd was Sammy Baugh's best buddy. One of Sam's children is named after him. Todd is married, has one child, and in the off-season is a rancher and farmer outside Crowell, Tex.

Line Coach—Orville Tuttle

Wise in National Football League competition and well-fortified with coaching experience is Orville Tuttle.

Although only 40, he can draw upon almost a quarter-century of experience as competitor and coach. And he's used to winning. Four of the five New York Giants teams he played on won championships. And last year he helped coach Oklahoma through an undefeated season.

A native of Bartlesville, Okla., Tuttle attended Phillips U. and Oklahoma City U. His coaching and playing career since then:

1936—Assistant Coach at Oklahoma City U.

1937-41—Player with New York Giants.

1942—Assistant Coach at Oklahoma City U.

1944-45—Player-Coach El Toro Marines and Pearl Harbor Marines.

1946—Player with New York Giants.

1947—Assistant Coach Boston Yanks.

1948-49—Head Coach Oklahoma City U.

1950—Assistant Coach University of Oklahoma.

Tuttle is married, has one son and lives in Oklahoma City.

End Coach—Larry Cabrelli

For seven years, Larry Cabrelli of the Eagles was one of the NFL's finest defensive ends. But when he retired from playing, the Eagles' defensive end play didn't fall off. The reason: Larry was coaching the ends.

A native of Newark, N. J., Cabrelli is a graduate of Colgate where he won letters in basketball as well as football. He joined the Eagles in 1941. Although he weighed merely 195 pounds and stood only 5 feet 11, which is considered small for defensive ends in the NFL, Cabrelli was a standout from the start. He was known as a "coach's player" because of his keenly analytical mind, and his fierce competitive spirit.

Cabrelli captained the Eagles from 1943 through 1946. In 1947, he was player-coach and, in 1948, when they won the world championship, he was named end coach—the first end coach Greasy Neale ever hired. He left the Eagles last winter when Greasy did.

The new Redskins end coach is married, has two children, and lives in Philadelphia.

Fight on. Fight on till you have won.

The NFL's Two Leagues

THE 12-team National Football League actually is two leagues of six teams each—the American and National Conferences. The champions of the two conferences meet at the end of the season in the big world championship playoff game. This two-league set-up has been in effect since 1933 when it was devised by George P. Marshall, then president of the Boston Redskins.

The Redskins are in the American Conference which, because of the quality of the member teams, is popularly called "The Conference of Champions." The conference line-ups, with the teams listed in the order of their finish last season:

American

Cleveland Browns
New York Giants
Philadelphia Eagles
Pittsburgh Steelers
Chicago Cardinals
Washington Redskins

National

Los Angeles Rams
Chicago Bears
New York Yanks

Voice of the Redskins

A record-breaking association continues its precedent-shattering radio "run" this year as Harry Wismer, the nation's leading sportscaster, once again mans the mike for all Redskins games.

Harry Wismer

For the ninth consecutive season, Wismer will bring Redskins fans on-the-scene, play-by-play accounts of all home and road games on behalf of the American Oil Co., makers of Amoco Products.

The Wismer-Amoco-Redskins combination thus continues to set an all-time high for the broadcasting industry. No other sportscast of this magnitude has enjoyed such consistency of performance . . . indeed, rarely, if ever, in all radio has the same sponsor and the same announcer been identified with the same show for such a stretch of years.

Between Redskins games, Wismer is the sports editor of the American Broadcasting System. Throughout the year, he can be heard "covering" most of the top sports events. He airs some 30 football games every season, including the Sugar Bowl and World's Professional Championship; the National tennis singles and doubles; the National Open and PGA; Penn Relays; and numerous other sports spectacles.

The athletic, dynamic Wismer was born in Port Huron, Mich. He won eight letters in football, baseball, basketball, track and tennis at St. John's Military Academy and was headed for a big collegiate career at the University of Florida. But, as a freshman, he broke a leg.

Transferring to Michigan State, the sidelined athlete, yearning to keep close to sports, aired Spartans' sports over the college radio station. On Sundays, he handled the public address system for the Detroit Lions.

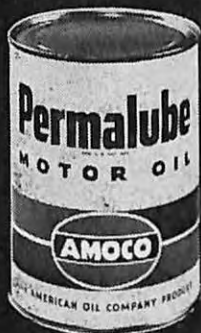

One day a heavy fog shrouded the field and Wismer moved from his PA booth to the sidelines and "broadcast" a radio-like description to the fog-blinded fans in the stands. It was so good, he was hired to air the Lions' games the following season . . . and he was on his way.

Numerous honors have been heaped upon him. Six times he has won the Sporting News Award as the Nation's No. 1 sports commentator, and he won the Washington Touchdown Club's trophy for the most outstanding sportscaster for all four years it was offered.

"The Whiz," as he is known from coast to coast, is married, has two children and lives in Ypsilanti, Mich.
